CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOST TO BASEBALL CLUB

The Hondo Chamber of Commerce entertained the members of the Hondo Owls baseball team and their dates at a banquet Monday night in honor of the winning of the State Championship in High School baseball at the Dallas state meet last week. A delicious three-course dinner was served.

After the repast, President J. H. Burgin of the Chamber of Commerce introduced Frank X. Vance as toastmaster. Mr. Vance introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. John Swope, Chairman of the San Antonio Optimists Knighthole Gang Committee, who spoke at some length on baseball and related subjects. Mr. Swope commended baseball not only as a wholesome and entertaining sport but as an effective means of developing the best that is in a boy individually and at the same time teaching him the advantages and importance of team work. It is not the star of the team that wins the game but the team-work of the whole team, in the opinion of Mr. Swope.

Mr. Vance introduced the Owls umpire, Rudy Rath, who introduced the visiting guests and all expressed pleasure at having a part in honoring Hondo's winning team. Notable guests among the visitors were C. M. "Dutch" Flory, former Hondo coach; Harry Stieler, coach of Corpus Christi's state high football champions; Wm. T. "Bill" DuBose, line coach of Corpus Christi and also former Hondo coach; and a group of San Antonians including President William Tate of the Optimist Club, Chairman John Swope of the Optimists Knighthole Gang committee, and Fred J. Bommer Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Knighthole Gang committee.

Prof. J. G. Barry, coach of the Owls and winner, along with his team's honors, of the distinction of being named the outstanding coach of high school baseball in Texas, responded to the numerous encomiums for his team in his usual happy manner, and said the team work of the team had won the honors for all.

The proceeds from the sale of banquet tickets, after taking care of the expenses, goes to the benefit of the ball team.

Robinson served the refreshments of yellow and white brick ice cream and Lady Baltimore cake. Assisting were Mrs. Henry Vogel, Mrs. Guenther Koch, Mrs. George Koch, and Misses Johanna Leinweber and Anna Mae Carle.

BELTON TRUCK DRIVER HURT IN ACCIDENT

As we go to press late Thursday, Jasper Dennis of Belton is in Medina Hospital, still unconscious from injuries received in an accident on the highway about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. As far as officers could ascertain, the injured man evidently fell asleep while driving a big GMC truck and ran it off the highway on the west side of town at the J. S. Fly corner, the truck hitting a light pole and just missing a concrete culvert, and came to a stop in a ditch, plowing up the ground in its wake. The impact telescoped the heavy truck bed and the cab, completely demolishing the latter. The driver was rushed to the hospital only two blocks away, where first aid was given. The only injury visible is a cut under his chin from which he bled rather profusely. There may be a possible head injury. The only information available is that he is a driver hauling feed for Jimmy Sandler of Belton, Texas.

FUTURE FARMERS MEET

On Wednesday, June 7, the Hondo Future Farmers of America held a regular summer meeting at the school house. Plans for a group project were discussed as were plans for a livestock show.

The meeting then adjourned. The next meeting will be held July 5th.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Czerkus and members of the Lutheran Church Choir and their families enjoyed a barbecue supper at the church grounds Wednesday night. Refreshments of barbecued pork, salads, cake and iced tea and coffee were served.

BADER-BRUCKS

Miss Anna Leah Brucks, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Brucks of Hondo, and Matt Bader of LaCoste, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bader from near Devine, were married in a simple ceremony at 5:30 o'clock Thursday, June 1, 1939, at the Catholic rectory in Hondo. Rev. Paul J. Potgens, pastor, performed the ceremony in the presence of members of the family and a few friends.

The bride was attended by her youngest sister, Miss Genevieve Brucks, as maid of honor. Mr. Leo Bohl Jr. of Devine assisted the bridegroom as best man.

The bride wore a smart costume, a navy blue sheer dress fashioned as a redingote with touches of white, a high crowned navy blue straw hat with a white band, and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias. The frock worn by Miss Genevieve Brucks was dusty pink crepe, the bolero made with collar and revers of white eyelet pique. Her straw hat and sandals were in a fuchsia shade and her corsage was pink rosebuds.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The reception suite was attractively decorated with pink and white gladioluses in floor baskets and vases. In the dining room, the table was laid with a snowy Madeira cloth and centered with a round mirror plaque reflecting a white Dresden ring holding a delicate arrangement of Shasta daisies and pink and white gladioluses, and lighted pink candles. The bride's cake was a large square confection iced in white and adorned with pink sugar-spun flowers. Mrs. H. B. Hubert of San Antonio served the salad and Mrs. B. R. Eichenrodt of San Antonio presided over the punch bowl. After the bride had cut the first slice, Miss Josephine Brucks of San Marcos served the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Bader left later for a brief motor trip and on Monday of this week went to Austin where Mr. Bader will attend the University of Texas for work on his Master's degree. After August 1st they will be at home in LaCoste, Texas, where Mr. Bader is superintendent of the LaCoste High School.

The bride is a graduate of Hondo High School and attended Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio, and the Southwest Texas State Teachers College, San Marcos. She taught school in Medina County for several years, and has just completed the term as principal of the Seco School. Mr. Bader graduated from Devine High School and received his degree from the Teachers College at San Marcos. He has also taught school for several years, serving for the last two years as superintendent of the LaCoste High School, which position he continues to hold.

The guests for the ceremony and reception included Mr. and Mrs. George Bader and son, August, parents and brother of the bridegroom, from near Devine; Mr. Bader's grandmother, Mrs. August Bader, of Castroville; Miss Jewel Binkley of Charco, Miss Mary Ruth Cameron of San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Reynolds and daughter, Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Heath, Misses Lucille Newton, Thelma Lynch and Anne Davis, Mrs. Marguerite Murrill, B. K. Garrett and Harry Fileman, all of Hondo.

QUIHI NOTES.

The sick-list, alas, is a standing item, with its attendant pain, worry and anxiety. Mrs. Arthur Grell had to change her daily routine and Sunday attendance on account of sickness, and when mother is down, the whole family ordinarily must follow suit. Mr. Emil Lindeburg is still ailing and his condition often gives rise to fear and uncertainty. Mr. W. Boehle perhaps should be in bed, but we found him a good way from it, somewhat improved, but still far from normal. Mrs. John G. Bohlen is still at the Medina hospital, surrounded by tender care and attention. There are fair signs of improvement and we are glad with her.

Perhaps of some local interest, if we mention the names of those attending the classes for instruction towards confirmation: Darlene Mildred Balzen, Effie Mae Balzen, Jarline Annie Balzen, Bernice Justine Lindeburg, Harold James Bohlen, Henry Clinton Buss, Elton Jay Hartmann, Elton Lindeburg, Marvin Nietenhoefer and Wilfred Herman Schulte. There are others that should be with them, if that baptismal vow means anything. May the Lord bless the efforts and the consecration of these young Christians.

Announcements for June 11: English service at 10; Sunday school and Bible class at 9; German service at New Fountain, at 2; Luther League program at 8 P. M. "The redeemed of the Lord shall return, and come with singing unto Zion." Join them! —C. W.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

Mrs. Aaron Colon of San Antonio, who prior to her recent marriage was Miss Pauline Saathoff, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Wednesday afternoon, May 31, at the Quibi Parish Hall, with Mrs. Ernest Thomas, Mrs. Herman Gerdes, Mrs. Arthur Schulte, Mrs. Alfred Saathoff, and Mrs. John Henry Saathoff as hostesses.

The color scheme of pink and blue was developed with floor baskets, pot plants, zinnias and crepe myrtle for decoration. The hostesses were also dressed in pink frocks trimmed in blue rick-rack.

The bride, lovely in a charming navy blue dress with a sheer pink bodice and long full sleeves, was escorted to her place of honor by little Misses Margie Lou Gerdes and Willie Jean Saathoff dressed in little pink crocheted dresses. The trio entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by Miss Hertha Weber at the organ.

The following toast was then given by Miss Margaret Scwartzing: Dear Pauline, why Did you act so shy And slip away to be wed, With no good friends near To give to you cheer, When your marriage vows were read?

No reason we know Why you should treat us so, But we love you just the same, And have met today in the usual way To bless and honor your name.

If all our friends that came here today, Were asked just what they would like to say, I'm sure their wishes would fill this space, Expression of joy is in each face.

You have come from the altar, a wedded pair, Where you solemnly vowed to ever share Each others pleasures, each others woes, It matters not which way the tide goes.

May love you have spoken for each other, Grow stronger each day; don't ever bother, For true love always will stand the test.

And unto God leave all the rest. Now we wish for you All that's good and true, No griefs or trouble or strife; Be kind and be good As you know you should And you'll be happy through life.

Following the toast Miss Della Hartman rendered a beautiful accord solo, after which Miss Margie Lou Gerdes and Willie Jean Saathoff transported the presents in a covered wagon to the honoree. She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. In her own sweet way the bride thanked her many friends for the lovely gifts.

In the guessing contest Miss Lillian Hartman won first prize, and Miss Crystal Boehle won boobie.

The bride's book, a gift from her sister, Mrs. Alfred Saathoff, was in charge of Miss Hertha Weber. Refreshments consisting of vanilla ice cream, devil's food cake with date filling, white cake with a 7-minute frosting, ice box cookies and cocoa sticks were served. The plate favors were little pink cups filled with assorted candies.

The guests numbered about 60.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE

MR. and MRS. J. N. WORD and MR. and MRS. JOHN H. SCHWEERS of Hondo are some old-timers who attended the Old Settlers Jubilee at Frontier Times Museum in Bandera last Saturday... having been wed fifty years they were privileged to attend the Golden Wedding reception the same day.

Not in the fifty-year class but on the threshold of matrimony are HERBERT KOCH of D'Hanis and HERMEON HORN of San Antonio... and rumor has it that no sooner did MILDRED MARTIN graduate from Hondo High School, than she became engaged to GEORGE GOFFNETT of San Antonio, formerly of Hondo... the shower tea for JOLEBOLD Monday is a sign the serious step is not far off.

R. B. REYNOLDS got the ring out of the Bader-Brucks wedding cake. Cousins HORACE BRITSCH and BUSTER GOFF could easily pass for twin brothers.

Little ANNIE MARIE BRADEN is thrilled over her recent 3-days vacation with her grandparents in D'Hanis.

BULL & BALONEY

By Clayton Rand

President Roosevelt in a recent utterance said not to worry over the $40,000,000,000, for "our national debt is an internal debt owed not only by the nation but to the nation"

We have the same situation in our local bank. One man deposits his surplus there and another man borrows it, but it's an internal debt, owed by the community to the community.

Uncle Sam borrows money and issues a bond for it. You and I who own no bonds are taxed to pay the bondholders interest and to retire the principal. It is not a debt by the nation, and any such silly reasoning is 90 percent bull and the rest baloney.

According to George Slaughter, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, cotton farmers cannot afford to give up the commodity loan program which has kept the bottom from falling out of cotton prices, but has "put the skids under our export trade" by pegging the price of American lint slightly above the world level. "If it were not for the government loan, cotton which has been selling for around 8 cents this year, probably would have dropped to 6 cents", according to Slaughter. "The foreign-grown staple consequently has undersold Uncle Sam's product by about 2 cents. We can't stand to give up the loan, and must uphold the price so far as practical at which the farmer sells his cotton, and continue to get maximum returns from the domestic market. But we must let foreign buyers have our cotton for the same price that our competitors quote, or we will continue to lose export markets. The farmer would get the same price for his cotton whether it was used in this country or exported, according to the plan. The government simply would make up the difference between the domestic price and the world price, by paying exporters a bounty to place the staple on world markets at competitive prices". In other words, the American consumer would not only have to pay the tariff tax on whatever importations of foreign goods were made or its equivalent in a subsidy to the American manufacturer of cotton goods but a subsidy to the exporter of raw cotton as well! No burden was ever lightened by adding to it, no problem of economics or ethics was ever solved by such sophistry, no people were ever led out of the wilderness by such Moseses as Wallace, Slaughter, et al.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS . . .

by
James Preston

The opinions here expressed are Mr. Preston's own and not necessarily those of this paper.—M. E.

A pebble on the beach is still just a pebble, even when transferred to the "social position" of a rock garden. There is no metamorphosis.

But take a political pebble from Podunk to Washington and the metamorphosis is astounding. He, or she, becomes a self-styled social lion, or lioness, overnight and no social height is too great to discourage the climber.

So it is that a good many pebbles who felt flattered to be invited to a Saturday night shindig at a neighbor's home in Podunk, are causing no less a personage than an Ambassador to lose sleep and poise in Washington these days. It is all because they can't get an invitation to meet the King and Queen of England.

Two weeks before the scheduled arrival of Their Majesties, the guest list of those invited to the official garden party at the British Embassy was announced. It ran into many hundreds of names. Those appearing on the list were the Congressmen, the top-rung officials of the administrative branch of government, and the recognized social leaders.

But missing from the guest list were the so-called bright young men and women who have filtered into Washington (and into responsible, well-paying government jobs) in the last few years. And so it was that this group began raising a terrific rumpus over their social hurts. Reasoned this group: If we are big enough to make business men and John Taxpayer bow in respect before us, aren't we good enough to bow before the visiting Royalty?

The energy that has been expended by these socially ambitious ones in an effort to get on the guest list, in many cases, exceeded the energy they expended to get their choicest jobs. It is the most interesting—and bitter—social war waged in the Capitol since the famous Dolly Gann-Alice Longworth feud of many years ago.

Indeed, the metamorphosis of a political pebble is strange when fortune lifts it from the unknown and commonplace of Podunk to the potent pot of politics and patronage in Washington.

—WSS—

But the struggle for social recognition is only for the slighted brain trusters. The Congressmen and the administration top-runners have a war of their own on, and the stakes are considerably higher. That struggle is over the question of: "More expenditures or a return to normalcy?"

It is a more furious battle than is portrayed in headlines. It is keeping a lot of administration strategists working overtime trying to head off that "return to normalcy."

Typical of the issues is the tax question. A formidable group of Congressmen decided a few weeks ago to take this matter into their own hands and write a new tax schedule. Their goal was to ease some of the tax restrictions on business so that investment would be stimulated. Until business and investment is stimulated, this group reasoned, there can be no recovery.

When the plan was presented at the White House the answer was "no." Finally, however, when it appeared certain that Congress would have its own way in the matter, regardless of administration wishes, there was a face-saving retreat.

Some observers are saying: Now that Congress has gotten a new taste of the authority which was rubber-stamped away a couple of Congresses ago, it is going to be difficult to head off anything it sets its mind to accomplish.

That is why there is a quiet effort being made by administration spokesmen in Congress to bring about adjournment as soon as possible. They don't want to gamble on what Congress might get into its head.

—WSS—

More Beef Stew: Ever since the White House proclaimed Argentine beef to be cheaper and superior to American-grown beef, and ordered the Navy Department to buy the South American product for the Navy mess tables, the administration has wished it could awake and find the whole thing a dream. It hopes the Congressional tempers which reached the boiling point over the question will cool and that the matter will soon be forgotten. But Washington restaurants aren't helping much. They are careful to point out on their menus: "This beef is U. S. grown."

AUSTIN, June 5, 1939.—Having played every card in his hand in an effort to jam through the House of Representatives, his constitutional amendment for a sales tax, and four times having been defeated, Gov. O'Daniel and the sales tax forces aiding in his fight prepared at the week-end for a fifth and final effort.

The Governor played his hole-card last Friday, when he signed the bill liberalizing the pension rolls. In his Sunday morning broadcast, he placed the laurel wreath of victory upon his own brow, and celebrated a triumph he seemed to regard as already won.

Senators Are Arrogant
The strategy this week was designed to put the last ultimate ounce of pressure upon the determined House minority which has opposed the constitutional sales tax. The House had sent its omnibus tax bill to the Senate, where the State affairs committee promptly killed it, after hearing only three of a string of 40 witnesses. Motion to kill was offered by Sen. Will Pace, of Tyler, and only three votes—those of Clint Small, Manly Head and Olan Van Zandt—were cast against it. Those voting to kill included Collier, Graves of Dallas, Martin, Moore, Nelson, Pace, Roberts, Shivers, Stone of Galveston, Stone of Washington, Weinert and Winfield. Van Zandt, the blind senator from Grayson county, administered the death blow to the bill, when he refused to sign a minority report, which would have enabled it to go to the floor. Immediately afterward, on Pace's motion, the same committee killed the House gross receipts tax bill, which has been pigeonholed in the committee for a month. This cut off all possible methods of raising pension revenue at this session except through a constitutional amendment for a sales tax.

The Governor, in his radio talk, referred to it as a "compromise settlement" of the question. Actually, it was the most highbanded and arrogant refusal by nine Senators to accept any compromise that has been seen in the Legislature since the Senate blocked a regular session in refusing to consider the race gambling repeal bill.

Will U. S. Quit Paying
Opponents of the sales tax in the House declared, after O'Daniel's blistering radio denunciation of them, that they would stand fast, and refuse again to accept the Senate sales tax plan. If the bloc of 60 House votes does stand pat on the final test this week, it is obvious the session will not pass any tax measure, and early adjournment is expected.

On the other hand, the situation may not develop into the rosy-hued picture which the Governor described with many a chortle of glee to his Sunday radio audience. Instead of having delivered on his No. 1 promise—pensions for everybody of $30 a month—which he long ago abandoned, but now claims is met by the pension liberalizing bill, he may find another and different picture. The new bill adds about 80,000 to the rolls, which now number close to 118,000, pension officials say. Many informed persons in Austin assert that the Federal government will promptly cut off Federal aid, claiming the liberalized Texas law does not meet Federal requirements of need. If that happens, the pensioners now on the rolls will find themselves immediately confronted with a reduction of 50 percent in the present average pension payment of $13.55 per month. Then, as soon as the additional 80,000 names can be added to the rolls there will be a further reduction in the amount paid of approximately 40 percent. So the Texas pensioners may find themselves with an empty victory—with the law on their side but no money to pay off.

Plenty Liberal
Under the liberalized pension law, a couple over 65 might own a 200-acre black land farm, a residence costing $10,000, have a $1,000 life insurance policy each, and a substantial cash balance in the bank. They might further have six grown sons and daughters, single and living in their home, and earning $2400 a year each. But they would still be entitled to a pension, with no questions asked. Such a picture lends credence to the doubts of those who have had experience with the strict philosophy of government have recently cooked up a novel argument to reassure those who feel concern over today's high taxes and tomorrow's higher ones.

They explain that the 40 billion dollar public debt of this country is nothing to worry about, since it is a debt that Americans owe themselves: an "internal debt" which John Smith as private individual will some day pay to John Smith as citizen of the United States.

In that case we wonder whether, the next time the tax collector appears, he would object if John Smith, to settle his obligations to John Smith, cancelled his "internal debt" by merely taking the amount of his taxes out of one pocket and putting it in another?

If the tax collector really believes our "tax and spend" philosophers, he could scarcely object to the procedure—and think of the trouble and red tape saved for all concerned!

interpretation which the Federal Social Security board places upon the "need" requirements, before doling out the Federal cash.

Filibuster Costs a Million
The costly filibuster in the Senate, which has virtually stymied all important legislation during the dying weeks of the million-dollar record-breaking lengthy session, continued last week, and was due for another chapter. Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston acting in behalf of the Senate majority who are opposed to the price-fixing "fair trades" act, but politically afraid to vote against it, held the floor for two days with a reading of a history of the Texas Press, and a list of the 900 newspapers published in the State. He was "debating" the bill sponsored by the Texas Press Association to fix a flat rate for legal publication, and require their publication in newspapers instead of posting them on courthouse doors. The fair trades act lies directly under the newspaper bill on the Senate's House bill calendar. Purpose of the filibustering group is to avoid a vote on the fair trades act by refusing to get to it on the calendar.

Long Time, No Pensions
Meanwhile, pending in the Senate unacted upon are the drivers' license law, corrections to the highly controversial land vacancy bill, the county road bond indebtedness bill, and a dozen other matters of utmost importance to the State generally.

The final attempt to pass the sales tax amendment was scheduled for early in the week in the House, and the issue may possibly be decided finally before this column is in print. If it should pass, the sales tax which has figured in the last three gubernatorial campaigns, will overnight become the hottest political issue in Texas, and participants in the 1940 primary campaigns will begin oiling their artillery on either side at once. If it should be adopted by the people, it will, of course, be many months before the law brings in any pension revenue.

Sing oh sing ye happy people
Let your joyful anthems rise

He has vanquished death for aye
And His promise in the lilies
Is to you on Easter Day!

TIMELY NEWS FOR THE ORCHARD AND GARDEN PEOPLE.

According to: J. F. Rosborough,
Extension Horticulturist

NOW IS THE TIME TO:
Repair Damage Done By Hail.
Pruning off damaged growth should not be done until new sprouts have begun to come out on the branches. At that time it is easier to determine the proper place to make the cuts. You can, however, cover the peeled branches with orange shellac where the foliage, twigs and top part of the branches have been damaged. The material can be applied with an ordinary paint brush. Shellac dries quickly and seals the damaged area, thereby preventing a loss of sap and allowing quick healing to take place. Where large portions of the hard wood are exposed, the surface should be covered with asphaltum paint, after the bark has begun to heal. This usually requires three to four weeks. Trees suffering from hail damage should be watered throughout the summer wherever possible to encourage the development of foliage.

Bud Peach Trees. Budwood can be cut from the new growth appearing between now and June 1 to 15. It may be cut, packed in damp shavings and held in cold storage at a temperature of 34 to 40 degrees F. for two to three weeks until ready to be used. For budding peaches, plums and other fruits where T budding is employed, rubber bands for tying in the buds are preferable to paraffine strips. Rubber bands rot off in 10 to 12 days, making it unnecessary to cut the bands. In patch budding pecan trees you will find the use of paraffine cloth strips 3 1/2 inch wide and 12 to 16 inches long very helpful. Domestic cloth is dipped into hot paraffine (not boiling) and saturated. Make a convenient roll of the cloth so that strips 12 to 16 inches in length can be torn off with which to tie in the buds. Cloth strips do not cut in the bark and will enable the bud to increase its speed.

Fight insects and diseases. Peach and plum trees need to be sprayed now with lime sulphur to prevent brown rot, scab and leaf spot. One and one-half pounds of lead arsenate may also be included in the spray. You can buy the lime sulphur and mix 7 lbs. with 50 gals. of water—enough for 15 to 20 trees—at a cost of about 5 to 10 cents per tree. Isn't this a cheap price to pay for good fruit?

Grapes and figs should be sprayed with a 4-4-50 bordeaux mixture to control brown rot on grapes and fig rust. This spray is also used on grapes to control mildew, leaf folders, leaf hoppers, and aphids. For fig rust, continue spraying at 30-day intervals until September.

Pecans need a second spraying of lead arsenate spray for the control of pecan nut case bearer, using 3 pounds of lead arsenate to 50 gals. of water. If pecan trees are affected by rosette, zinc sulphate may be added in combination with the lead arsenate spray, using 1 lb. of zinc to 50 gals. spray solution.

In The Garden

Store Onions. Those onions that are bottle-necks, splits and doubles should be separated from those to be placed in long time storage because they are more subject to decay. These culled onions should be used first. The Sweet Spanish and Australian Brown onions are more suitable for storage than Yellow or White Bermudas. Adequate ventilation and a location where there is little light is essential. Light will cause the onions to turn green, while a lack of ventilation will hasten decay.

Harvest Potatoes. Don't be too hasty. Irish potatoes are not ready for digging until the skin has become tough and will not scrub up easily when pressure is put on the surface of the skin with the thumb. They will keep satisfactorily in the ground until dry weather in June occurs, at which time they may be dug and stored in a cool, dark place, well supplied with ventilation. Under-ventilation is important in storing potatoes. Where potatoes are placed directly on a wooden or cement floor, moisture and heat, both of which are given off by the potatoes, will bring about decay. Potatoes may be placed in dry sand, straw, or on wooden strips so that air may circulate.

LA COSTE LEDGERTIES.

The LaCoste Ledger. ROAD BUILDING PLANS

Road building plans in connection with the construction of a new bridge across Medina River at Castrovilla may be enlarged to provide better roads in the LaCoste area. A WPA project has been set up, but not yet approved, which provides for the building of a road base from the Bexar County line through LaCoste and north to Castrovilla and Rio Medina to a point further north to be determined by the people.

Such a road would provide for the extension of the pavement from the Bexar County line through LaCoste and out two streets on the route north to Rio Medina. On the north road project, which also will include provision for right-of-way on Highway 90 through Castrovilla, the pavement will be extended as far as toward Medina Lake as the funds made available will permit. The ultimate aim is to complete the road from LaCoste to Medina Lake as the first lap of the "Farm-to-Market" road from Pleasanton through Potet and Lytle to LaCoste.

No definite information as to costs was available but it is understood that the cost of putting up the road base would be around $1,000 a mile. Costs of the proposed right-of-way have not yet been determined. Committees are at work at Castrovilla getting signers for right-of-way for the new bridge and road through the city. There the people realize that they must provide for the right-of-way if they get the road improvements.

Just at this time a road extending from LaCoste to Rio Medina and some distance beyond toward Medina Lake would be of untold benefit to farmers in marketing their crops and will divert much traffic this way to and from Medina Lake. Such a road eventually may become a highway that will provide a short cut to west Texas from the Gulf ports.

Telephone Teamwork in Texas

Some people are surprised to learn that there are 396 telephone companies serving Texas. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is the largest, it is true. But there are others—395 of them—which have the important job of providing telephone service in about 830 Texas towns and cities.

The Southwestern Bell is glad its lines connect with the lines of these other Texas telephone companies, blanketing the state with a vast network of wires—so that boundaries between companies are not barriers to quick, state-wide telephone service.

Through teamwork and friendly co-operation, 396 Texas telephone companies work together to furnish Texas with telephone service that is fast, accurate, and dependable.

Long Distance in Texas is cheap. You can telephone 100 miles for 63 cents (3 minute conversation, day rate, station-to-station).

MRS. LEBOLD DEAD

Mrs. Josephine Lebold, widow of the late Emil Lebold, died at her residence, 1012 Lewis Street, San Antonio, on June 5, 1939, after only a few days illness. She had attained

Tuesday, June 6th, at Hagy-McCollum-Murray Chapel. The funeral cortege left the chapel at 7 A. M.
Wednesday, June 7th, for Castro-ville, where the body rested in the parish hall until requiem high mass was said at 9:30 A. M. in the St.
Louis Catholic Church. The pastor, Rev. Dean J. Lenzen, assisted by Rev. Eugene Zuber of D'Hanis, officiated. Interment was made in the

HUSER AND TOMMY FINGER
MAKING BASEBALL NEWS.

Herbert Huser, giant D'Hanis hurler, recently joined the Henderson baseball team of the East Texas League. He pitched his first game for the Oilers one night last week, holding the opposing Longview Cannibals scoreless to the tenth inning.
Here are some comments gleaned
from a Henderson newspaper:

"A four-run outburst in the tenth inning on four hits, two errors, and a sacrifice hit last night ruined Herb Huser's debut as a Henderson Oiler as the Longview Cannibals won with a 4-0 whitewashing.

"The game was a heart-breaker for Huser to lose. The big right-sider was making his first start, and although wild in early stages of the game, hurled good ball until the fatal tenth. Until the outburst, the Savs had garnered only five hits off the giant chunker." Incidentally Bill Howell who pitched for the opposing Cannibals, was formerly of Devine, and has played against D'Hanis on several occasions.

Tommy Finger of the Lafayette, La., White Sox, has allowed only one run in the last four games he has pitched.

Mrs. P. M. Koch of D'Hanis was the guest of Mrs. Frances Keller the first of the week.

MRS. LAURA REINHART ROTHE

Medina County lost one of its best-known and loved citizens when, surrounded by pastor, family, and friends, Mrs. Laura Reinhart Rothe, wife of County Judge Arthur H.
Rothe, died at the age of 51 in the Medina Hospital at Hondo at 11:30
on the night of Wednesday, May 31, 1939. Death released her from intense suffering caused by a malignant growth in her sinus, and which she had endured for over six months.
During this time all the means known to modern medical science were applied in vain, two trips to the Mayo Brothers Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, in November, 1938, and February, 1939, a period of three weeks in the Scott and White Clinic at Temple, Texas, during May 1939,
as well as further care in Medina Hospital, alike proving futile. The remarkable fortitude and patience of Mrs. Rothe while a patient were a source of admiration to professional attendants as well as to the many friends who visited her during her illness.

Laura Jane Reinhart was born in her father's ranch home on Rio Seco,
Medina County, on December 31, 1887, to the late Jacob Reinhart and Theresa Ney Reinhart. There she spent her childhood, and in 1902 the family moved to Sabinal. She attended the public schools of San Antonio and Sabinal High School. On June 25, 1913, she married Arthur
H. Rothe of D'Hanis, and they made their home on her husband's ranch west of the latter town. Their union was blessed with two children, both of whom survive the mother.

The body remained at the Horger
funeral home until Friday morning,
June 2, when at 9 o'clock a Requiem
High Mass was celebrated in St.
John's Catholic Church at Hondo.
Rev. Paul Potgens, pastor, read the Mass and preached the sermon. Also in the sanctuary were Rev. Eugene Zuber of D'Hanis, and Rev. Leo St.
John, O. M. L. of Uvalde and Sabi-nal. The remains were then taken to the home of the deceased until Saturday afternoon, June 3, when services at the home were conducted by Rev. St. John, followed by burial in the Sabinal cemetery. The largest gathering ever to attend a funeral in this vicinity followed the remains to their last resting place, and mounds of flowers attested to the widespread sympathy and affection of many who mourned the close of

ABOUT THE ORCHARD

The ever eternal question comes up as to when, to cut berry plants off or should they be cut off when done bearing. Mr. Mike Boyd of Ballinger one of the most successful berry growers I ever did see argues not to cut the old plants off until after they are stone dead. He has the idea that these old plants the longer they live add strength and vigor to the new plants. In other words if you cut corn tops it is now said you lose twenty per cent of your corn crop. Though the top is dying it adds more to the ear of corn. Maybe so. Maybe the strength of that old vine does gradually go into the plant. Several years ago it was argued to run a mower over the patch after the fruit was gathered was the thing to do. This was the lazy man's way of getting rid of grass and weeds. But often it comes dry weather just after the whole plant has been cut down and the lazy man gets rid of his berry patch. The best way is to bear with the long vines as best we can. The more bearing surface the better. And there is a peculiar thing about berries. A dozen berries on a vine will not be any larger than a hundred berries on the same vine. So thinning or trying to thin berries does not help a bit. As a rule the bigger the berries are the greater number there are. Go into a wild berry thicket and you will often find half a dozen small berries to the plant. By the way I visited the old wild berry patch not so long ago where I saw my first blackberries. I never did see any wild dewberries until many years later.

—ATO—

This year there is the biggest mulberry crop I ever saw in my life. I have one tree I actually believe has twenty-five bushels of berries. They are in the sheep pasture. The sheep started in to eat all that fell off. Finally they got behind with their eating and now I think they are disgusted for the ground is covered with berries. I never pass one of the mulberry trees unless I think of when I was a child and my mother and aunt would gather up their flock of children and go to the creek and hunt mulberries. There would be a few berries scattered over a large tree. I have one of these wild mulberry trees growing in my pasture. It is a magnificent thing. Really if you want feed for an old cow a vigorous mulberry tree will furnish several feeds. The twigs and leaves are a great treat to a cow.

—ATO—

I remember reading a book written by H. M. Stringfellow many years ago. This book told about how he budded peach trees and kept two nimble fingered boys busy tying the buds in. Well, we have some bud-tiers on our place now and I would certainly like to see Mr. Stringfellow or any one else keep two of them busy. It is a very easy matter for them to keep up behind a budder who is budding twenty-five hundred a day.

—ATO—

A man is not one part. He is an assembly of parts. The various parts of his body represent different kinds of cells all living together and depending on each other. The liver is a different group of cells to the lungs but they depend on each other. I doubt that men get old. They starve to death. Old age is slow starvation. The different communities of cells refuse to support each other. The legs begin to get less and the stomach bigger. It is like a tariff wall around a country; it makes one part have too much while another part has too little. Our states are trying to build tariff walls and our small towns even pass ordinances to keep others from making a living. Nature in some way compensates for all this. A man builds up by work and efficiency until he gets "well fixed", as the saying is; then he begins to get lazy and want to force people to patronize him. Gradually he gets like the belly of a fat man and his whole business gets that way. Then his legs begin to get little and soon he is quietly sleeping under the daisies. England has tried to be the abdomen of Europe for a long time but a change has come, and always comes, and now King George is over in Canada looking for a new location. Britain has grown fat and lazy. They have tried to and have dominated the trade of the world but things are getting bad now. Just today a lady asked about a pecan tree. She had one of the most beautiful pecan trees I ever saw. Some one had sawed off some limbs and left rather long stubs. These stubs had been dead a long time and were full of ants. She was using cyanide trying to kill the ants. If she had encouraged the ants to do a good job eating off these dead stubs she would have gotten rid of them sooner. The ants do not eat green wood. The tree could not heal as long as that old dead stump was there. Nature was trying to remove the stub by causing the ants to eat it. I still am not convinced that germs cause disease and as I went home I got to ruminating. The purpose of germs may be to clean up where diseases have destroyed.

Of course, there are kinds of ants that live on green wood like kinds of worms but the ones that were on the lady's pecans were harmless to any thing but dead timber. If you go into the woods and find a dead limb on a green tree very often you will find these ants working right where the dead wood and the green wood join. It is nature's way of getting rid of useless material. As soon as this dead limb falls off the new wood is ready to grow over the place. After all nature is the best of all doctors. I remember when I was a boy I ask an old doctor what he did when he went to see a sick man and did not know what was the matter with the man. He said, "I give him something that I am sure is harmless and most sick people get well any way." And that is that.

—ATO—

Today and during the last few days I have had two men busily thinning peaches. I find that the limbs are beginning to bend and the peaches not half grown. I know Elberta trees that will have to be thinned this year or the big crop will hurt the trees. We are always beset with too much of a good thing or not enough. Last season I sent to east Texas for a few Hiely peaches. There was hardly a bushel of peaches in this whole country. I made a visit to De Leon country a few days ago. The peach crop there will be rather short so they said. The freeze last spring injured the trees so badly. Some growers were counting on a big crop of Bruce plums. My Bruce are as near perfect this year as it seems possible for them to be. I had thought maybe I would get a few of the much bragged on Elephant heart plums. I have some trees seven years old and not a plum. It seems unfair indeed for nurserymen to whoop up some worthless variety. Hundreds of people have been induced to plant this worthless plum when they could have had something really worth while. It strikes me the Golden Delicious apples are failing to live up to expectations. Funny thing we have only a very few Douglas pears this time; in fact, with me the pear crop is rather short. There will be a few Kieffer and that is the only one that is bearing very much.

ABOUT TEXAS GRASSES

By

J. H. Burkett

Lovington, N. M.

Mr. J. H. Burkett:

Kind Friend—Has been 2 years since you mailed me the Blue Grass. Just wanted to tell you has been better than I ever expected. I did not set out any until last July and, some real late in August. The row I planted you sent was not all in shade, did fine, made seed, is more than 3 feet wide and thick, full of seed heads now. The cool summers here are fine for it—has been green and grows some all time. Cold kills tops is all so far.

Truly yours,
EARL JOHNSON

Mr. Earl Johnson

Dear Sir and Friend:

Your report on the behavior of your experimental Blue grass planting confirms my former expressed convictions relating to its economic value. I am now in position to furnish the plants in 100,000 lots and at much reduced prices.

My scope of activities relating to our native grasses continues to expand beyond my physical and mental ability to take care of my correspondence, arising from my original desire to start home-owners to give Texas blue grass and the Buffalo and Creeping Mesquite grasses a chance to prove their worth under domestication.

These first ventures started more than two years ago has caused me to make casual observation of the habits and values of others of Nature's grass species which seems to me to be of special outstanding economic value—especially indicated in all sandy, wind-eroded soils.

One of these is what I have given the name of "Poverty grass". This grass appears first where the surface soil has become so impoverished by the growing of clean cultivated crops, sweet potatoes and Peanuts until it has to be abandoned. Immediately, several of Nature's "reclamation" grasses and weeds move in and begin a heroic struggle to rebuild the soil. The first to appear is an annual persistent tufted grass—comes up in early Spring, matures seed, sheds them and forms a dense soil-cover. This annual precedes Poverty grass, which is a perennial tufted grass plant which spreads gradually its tuft but principally by the production of seed. The first feature which attracted my attention to this grass was that it has the ability to become permanently established on "sand drift domes" which is usually so exceedingly dry and steep that only the surface mass is selected for its home. Once up, it begins its struggle and by fall one to five seed stems mature seed. The next season a dozen or more seed producing culms mature. Poverty grass begins its spring vegetative activity in late winter and early spring, and stock graze it freely, indicating its palatable qualities.

This grass grows from 2 to 5 feet tall in the poorest sandy soil and produces seed abundantly. I am of the opinion that, if given a chance it will grow and thrive in the sandy shinnery sections of the Plains area and help to retard the sand drift.

The other grass I will attempt to describe is a plant that in some respects resembles Johnson grass and is native to this section.

It is frequently found contending quite successfully with our Post oak shinnery first forming a slump-tuft, extends underground by its rhizomes-roots, similar in this respect to Texas blue grass. It is a broad leaved perennial and grows to a height of two to six feet. Once established it stays perpetually, regardless of close grazing or dry weather. It seeds profusely, and is disseminated by stock and by the wind.

Both it and the poverty grass begin shedding their seed soon after maturity in mid-Summer and early Fall. If you care to try out the above grasses I can furnish you with plants this Fall and probably also some of their seed.

If you have not given close study to your blue grass, you should collect the late maturing heads, as its first apparent seed heads are sterile—Staminate, most of them standing up erect. The Pistillate seed culms frequently droop their heads and are exceedingly woolly after they mature their seed. My pistillate plants are just now beginning to ripen their seed, and most all of the staminate plants have, what you may think is the seed.

If you have irrigation ditches that become infested with Johnson grass and you prefer the ditch banks to grow blue grass, you can sow blue grass among the Johnson grass and it will in the course of time take full possession and furnish you good grazing throughout the Winter and early Spring. Here with me, cold never retards the growth of my blue grass. I am sending a copy of this letter to Fletcher's Farming and am taking the liberty of soliciting your returning to me one of the Sub blanks, with a $1 believing that you may hand your neighbors a blank they would no doubt enjoy reading a high-class Farm and Home magazine.

Cordially yours,

J. H. BURKETT.

Saint Jo, Texas.

Dear Mr. Burkett:

It looks very much like the Texas Blue Grass I got from you, is going to grow. I planted some on the north side of the house, and some in the rose garden, some under the trees, and I believe all is going to grow.

I thank you very much for telling me about the grass I sent to you.

Yours very truly,

MRS. S. J. HOLT.

Dear Mrs. S. J. Holt:

I presume you have received your May copy of F. F. by this time, which carried copies of our letters. I am also pleased to have your report as to the behavior of your Texas blue-grass under the different environments which you report.

Regardless of what others may say, I am positively certain that Texas blue grass responds favorably, and can be successfully transferred any day in the year, regardless of heat of the summer or cold of the winter. It withstands abuse and neglect equal to onion plants. Given good soil and plenty of moisture it will remain vegetatively active the year round.

My little puny efforts to encourage the domestication of Texas—Poa, continues to broaden and enlarge my grass interests continuously, so that I have transferred other species under close observation. I hope to be able to give F. F. readers an occasional description of some of the most promising in the near future.

Very respectfully yours,

J. H. BURKETT.

PAINTING AND PAINT.

By V. M. Crouch

The painting season is at hand, and much of this work is done during the spring months, but some consider the drier weather of late summer and early fall a better time to do outside painting.

After nearly twenty years experience at this work, I have found that the condition of the wood or surface painted, is one of the most important points in making a good, durable job. The wood must be dry and the cleaner the better. The paint, no matter how good, if applied on damp wood, imprisons the moisture and induces dry rot and will blister more

HOW DIFFERENT BY NIGHT

In daylight color everywhere,
Yellow, bright blue and red,
Lilac and pink, while vivid green
Borders each flower bed.
But night shows grass a frosty grey,
No bright hues catch the eye.
Leaves trace a dark blue filagree
Upon a velvet sky.
Gladiolas along the wall
Are naught but slender posts,
The darker blooms have turned to black,
The white stand out like ghosts.
Young moon, half hidden by a cloud,
Throws oblique rays between Tall tree branches to rest upon
The pool of silvery sheen.
My garden is an unknown place
Wrapped in this eerie light.
The world is hushed, I sit alone
And watch the spell of Night.

—ELLIE WILCOX BURT.

How different by night are our June gardens, and how perfectly does our old friend, Ellie Wilcox Burt, describe their shadowy beauty in the poem at the top of this column. A beautiful word picture, "How Different By Night" is accorded place of honor this month. Congratulations, Mrs. Burt!

H H

Entering into the spirit of June means entertaining for brides, school graduates and vacation-time guests. Whatever entertainment medium you choose—shower, luncheon, picnic, etc.—the unexpected and the original are what add interest to the occasion. Juliette Frazier borrows from a popular pastime and builds a novel party around a game of Chinese checkers, a hint to every June hostess.

H H

This year Father's Day falls on June 18th. The adage, "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach" still applies to Dads, and mothers and daughters must find "foods with a foundation" to please him. The recipes given here are for sweets and meats, and that old-timer the "pie-plant" (rhubarb).

H H

With this issue Mrs. Frazier completes the series on "The Influence of Undesirable Associates", and we hope that all of Farming's readers have availed themselves of the wealth of advice and guidance presented therein. Next month, a new field, "Training Children to Become Industrious", will be treated by the author.

H H

What the "Do You Know That—" column lacks in quantity is more than equaled in quality this month. Any contributions to this column will be appreciated. Gertrude Thomas Heinen, who has such an original way of making pretty and inexpensive napkins in this issue, has offered to send some directions for crocheted articles, which should be good news to those interested in fancy work.

H H

Again a leaf from "Your Favorite Recipe Book" appears here. The cook book from which it is taken is the official volume compiled by the home demonstration club women of Medina County. The recipes contained in it are family favorites and all tested by the ladies contributing them. The cook book sells for 50c a copy.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE JUNE HOSTESS

By Juliette Frazier, D. Litt.

June! the traditional month of brides, announcements of engagements and forthcoming weddings, is always a busy month for the hostess. During the course of this month the hostess will often be searching for new plans for simple parties and ways to entertain guests and visitors. But when hurriedly casting about for some novel and interesting way to entertain a few friends, she may find a solution to her problem in a "Chinese Checker Party"

A number of Chinese checker boards should be procured, bearing in mind that five can play at each board. This is a game that is easily learned by any one who has never played it before, and since it is now all "the rage" it fits well in the order of the day.

The decorations need not be elaborate. A few Chinese paper lanterns suspended from the ceiling, plenty of flowers (real or of the paper variety), in oriental vases; a number of incense burners from which curls of blue smoke will lend a pleasing fragrance, is all that will be required to give the right setting. If the hostess desires, she may dress in Chinese costume, and those who help to serve the refreshments should also be dressed in oriental fashion.

Paper tablecloth and napkins may be used, but should bear Chinese designs. A large Chinese doll holding a small basket filled with flowers makes a very appropriate centerpiece. The doll may stand in the center of a large shallow wooden bowl filled with Chinese nuts and candied ginger.

The refreshments should be in keeping with the occasion, but that does not mean that they need be elaborate and entail much work in preparation. These may consist of a fruit salad, made of oriental fruits, served with rice cakes; roasted duck, sliced and served cold with sliced pineapple; or chicken chop suey; boiled rice Chinese style, bread and butter, tea served in tiny Chinese cups, and candied fruits.

Chicken Chop Suey

- 2 cups shredded cooked chicken
- 3 tablespoons butter

- 1 cup shredded onion
- 2 cups shredded celery leaves
- 2 cups bean sprouts
- 1-2 cup chicken broth

- 1 cup toasted almonds
- 4 tablespoons soy sauce

Melt the butter in a chafing dish. Put in the green pepper and onion, letting them cook a few minutes, but not until brown. Add the meat and cook five minutes. Then add the celery and bean sprouts and the broth, reserving a little broth to make a paste of the cornstarch. Add the paste and cook gently for ten minutes, stirring carefully. Then stir in the toasted almonds and the soy sauce. Serve with steamed rice.

NORMA RATLIFF WEDS SHUFORD McDONALD OF WACO SUNDAY MORNING

Miss Norma Ratliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Ratliff, became the bride of Shuford McDonald of Waco, Texas, at a mid-morning service Sunday in the ranch home of her parents on the Pinto. The Rev. H. M. Ratliff, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Del Rio, read the marriage lines.

White flowers against a background of green fan-shaped palm leaves decorated the living room of the ranch home. Clusters of white blossoms were used on the improvised altar and urns of greenery were placed at either side.

The bride wore a navy blue sheer with canary yellow French embroidered yoke, fitted blue tailored vest with yellow stitching and a full length blue sheer coat. She wore a navy panama hat trimmed with blue and yellow flowers and her gloves and bag were of yellow antelope. She wore a white orchid on her bag.

Miss Latham wore a biege frock with accessories of blue and lip-stick red. She wore a large blue felt hat and her corsage was of jasmines.

Following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding dinner in Hondo and a reception in San Antonio. They plan to tour the Southern states.

BOLL WEEVIL AND FLEA-HOPPER CONTROL

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Associate Editor
Farm and Ranch
Breeder-Feeder Association

It is one of the ironies of nature that soil and rainfall conditions which are most favorable for the growth of the cotton plant are also most favorable for the multiplication of insect pests. The more luxuriant the growth the better the boll weevil, the flea hopper, and the leaf worm like it. It is not uncommon for a casual observer to remark on the promising appearance of a field of cotton, in which a close examination will show that the flea-hopper is destroying the fruiting buds, the boll weevil is laying eggs in the squares which escape the flea-hopper, and the leaf worm moth has deposited her eggs on the lower side of the tender foliage—the more luxuriant the better she likes it.

None of these insects will attack slow-growing, drouth-stricken cotton by preference, but may do considerable damage on any kind of cotton if that is all they can find to feed on. What we are here trying to say is that when cotton is growing fast it is mighty important to watch for the insects and see that they do not destroy the fruit to such an extent that "weed" is all that is left.

At this stage cotton should rapidly set squares and the squares become blooms. If rank-growing cotton doesn't look "like a flower garden" every morning there is something the matter. Every cotton grower knows that cotton naturally "throws off" a part of the embryo fruit, but natural shedding and insect damage are two quite different matters. The early and mid-season blooms and bolls are most important in the yield, and must be saved from insect damage in order to insure a normal yield.

With the greatly reduced acreage in cotton under the AAA it becomes the more important to secure good yields from the acreage we have, and controlling insect depredations is one proven means of so doing. Besides, insect control which permits the "weed" to hold all the early fruit it can carry brings the main crop to maturity earlier in the season and a higher percentage of it is harvested at the first picking, when the grades are better than later.

A good many people do not get excited about insect pests until the leaf worm appears, and yet the leaf worm destroys far less cotton than either the flea-hopper or the boll weevil. By the time the leaf worm becomes numerous enough to do real damage the flea-hopper and the boll weevil have already got in most of their deadly work.

The fight against cotton insect pests is greatly simplified by the fact that a good dusting machine will handle all four—flea-hoppers, boll weevils, and boll worms—if used properly at the proper time. Dusting sulphur and calcium arsenate are the only insecticides necessary, if the campaign begins on time and is continued at intervals of five to eight days until the insects are under control. If no early dusting is done, heavier dusting, or extra arsenicals in the mixture may be needed to handle a heavy infestation of leaf worms, but it is both less effective and more expensive than a program which begins while the cotton is comparatively small and is followed up at regular intervals.

It is all right to make a count of the pests present if one knows how and wants to do so. The safest, surest, and in the long run, the cheapest, plan is to prevent rather than cure. When the flea-hopper begins to destroy the little fruit buds use sulphur. When the boll weevils come out of hibernation, or begin to sting the squares which have escaped the flea-hopper, a one-to-two mixture of calcium arsenate and sulphur is best. When leaf worms appear calcium arsenate alone will handle them if properly applied. No wet spray is necessary.

SOD DISEASE AMONG CHICKENS AND TURKEYS

Many letters are being received from poultry people stating that their chicks and poulters are crippled and that their feet have the appearance as though they might have walked through fire. Small blisters form on the feet and the toes curl up. The affected birds walk on the ball of the feet without the aid of the toes. This disease is commonly known as Sod Disease, and usually affects the chicks during the first few weeks of their life.

Close examination reveals the presence of blisters between the toes or possibly small scabs on top of the toes and on the lower part of the leg. The whole foot is usually swollen and is very tender to the touch. In a course of two or three days the blisters rupture and a thick heavy scab forms on the feet. If the chick survives, the scabs disappear in a course of two or three weeks, and the toes become extremely distorted, turning usually in an upward direction so that the only portion of the feet that touches the ground is the heel.

The symptoms may or may not appear on the head, and in some instances they may show on the head and not on the feet. In the early stages small blisters may be found in the unfeathered skin around the beak and around the eyes. Often the eyeids become glued together and the chick becomes totally blind.

The only treatment that can be followed is to move the chicks to newly plowed ground and to treat the feet or head parts with borie acid ointment or corbolated vasoline at least once a day until the condition is cleared up.

The altars were beautifully decorated with baskets of salmon-colored gladioluses and fern. First to enter the church was Miss LaVerne Rihn, bridesmaid; next, Marjorie Tschirhart, maid of honor and sister of the bride, followed by the bride on the arm of her father. They were met at the altar by the best man, Alois Rihn, and groomsmen, Alvin Keller. The bride wore a powder blue silk crepe dress finished with a touch of fur, and white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations and fern, and carried a white prayer book with white streamers and fern. The maid of honor and bridesmaid wore blue crepe dresses with white accessories and carried gladioluses and fern. CAMP CAYOCA TO OPEN

Camp Cayoca, a Catholic boys' camp, will open Wednesday for boys between the ages of 8 to 16. The camp will be under the direction of Major B. J. Reilly, Commandant of Moyer Military School. Assisting Major Reilly during the entire camp period, which extends to July 19, will be Rev. A. N. Kaler, O. M. I., of St. Mary's Church, San Antonio, as camp chaplain.

The camp is located on the banks of the beautiful Medina River, in the northern portion of Castroville. The camp grounds constitute about forty acres of land, which embrace natural scenic beauty and rugged back-grounds of wooded groves. The camp site is an ideal place for any boys' camp, situated high with good drainage on all sides.

The boys will sleep in water-proof tents, each tent housing five boys and a counselor. Tables and benches have been placed under the gigantic pecan trees from which the boys will be served meals cafeteria style. The camp home, representative of a typical log cabin, is modernistic interiorally, with electrical appliances and showers.

Activities will include wrestling, riflery, boxing, track, archery, shop work, arts and crafts, swimming, boating, horseback riding and numerous other activities.

FIREMEN HAVE BIG DAY

The Firemen's all-day picnic and dance Sunday, June 4, was a huge success and the fire boys are well satisfied with the results. The large crowd of entertainment seekers had attractions of a delicious barbecue luncheon and supper, boxing matches and a baseball game, which held their attention during the day.

The Castroville team was defeated by the D'Hanis team.

J. F. Schott, president of the Firemen's organization, stated that the amount of cash derived from the celebration had not been calculated, but he was enthusiastic with the way the citizens of the county attended the event.

The fire boys wish to take this means of expressing their appreciation to the crowd that attended and for the co-operative spirit shown by the public.

The funds realized will be used toward the payment of the truck and fire-fighting equipment.

The monthly meeting will be held Tuesday evening, June 13, and members are urged to be present. The organization meets on the second Tuesday of every month.

MRS. LOUIS FUOS

Our deceased friend, Mrs. Katherine Fuos, nee Loessberg, was born on October 22, 1861, near LaCoste, Medina County, Texas. She was the oldest child of Mr. George Loessberg and his wife, Katherine Loessberg, nee Wagner. On November 10, 1861, she was baptized in the Lutheran Church of Castroville, by the Rev. Heinrich Merz. Here in her beloved church she received her education. The pastors Merz, Lettermann and Jordan were her instructors. After receiving instruction in God's holy word, she was confirmed on March 21, 1875, by her beloved pastor, Rev. Gottfried Jordan. On March 5, 1884, she was married to Mr. Louis Fuos by Rev. Wm. Pfeunig. The first five years of their married life this happy young couple lived one year in a rental home, and then lived in the home of his parents until the year 1889 when Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fuos bought their present home from Mr. Ferd. Niggli. Here they lived together very happily all the many years of their married life.

Mrs. Fuos was a devout Christian and gladly worked for her congregation. Since the Fall of last year her health began failing, all through the winter she was quite feeble. On May 11, 1939, she became seriously ill with a touch of pneumonia. Upon the advice of her doctor, she was taken to the Medina Hospital at Hondo for treatment, where she received the best of care and attention. Last Wednesday, May 31, 1939, she died very suddenly and unexpectedly at 5:45 P. M. of a heart attack in the hospital at Hondo. She had a very peaceful and blessed end.

Mrs. Fuos leaves to mourn her devoted and beloved husband, Mr. Louis Fuos; four sisters and one brother, namely: Mrs. Otto Koenig, Devine, Texas; Mrs. Lizzie Morrissey of San Antonio; Mrs. Sam Etter and Mrs. P. Eichhorn, Castroville, and Mr. Reinhard Loessberg, San Antonio. Two brothers and one sister preceded her in death. They are Mr. Henry and Conrad Loessberg and Mrs. Christina Weber. Mrs. Fuos also leaves 26 nephews and nieces and many other relatives, friends and neighbors. She was known all over this community as Aunt Katy. She reached the ripe old age of 77 years, 7 months and 9 days.

The deceased was laid to rest last Friday, June 2, 1939, in the new Castroville Lutheran cemetery, Rev. A. H. Falkenberg, her beloved pastor, officiating. Many, many relatives and friends attended her funeral. Pall-bearers were Frank Loessberg, Erwin Loessberg, Walter Eichhorn, Oscar Koenig, Andrew Morrissey and George Etter.

May she rest in peace.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my neighbors, relatives and my many friends who so willingly assisted me during the illness and after the death of my beloved wife, the late Mrs. Katherine Fuos. I especially want to thank Rev. A. H. Falkenberg for his words of comfort and consolation, the Lutheran Choir, and for the many beautiful floral offerings.

May God bless you all.

LOUIS FUOS.
